DIGITAL EDUCATION

Why Stenograph?

Stenograph has 85 years of experience working to support the court reporting industry. We've built our business by evolving with the advancement of technology to continue to offer the best tools in the industry for our customers. Our goal is to provide support, software, services, and programs that assist in increasing the number of professional, educated, certified reporters.

How Stenograph is Supporting Schools Offering Digital Reporting Courses

We feel strongly that there should be an educated, certified court reporter in every deposition or courtroom, remote or in-person. Stenograph is proud to partner with schools who teach MAXScribe as part of their digital reporting, digital editor, or transcriber training programs, providing not only free software but also allowing schools to leverage material from the Stenograph Digital Reporting Academy within their curriculum, at no cost, with the goal of preparing the students for AAERT (American Association of Electronic Reporting and Transcribers) certification.

Schools that teach Digital Reporting programs report:

- ✓ 100% Student Completion Rate
- ✓ 100% Employment Placement
- ✓ Most Students are Entering Their 2nd Career

Digital reporting offers an additional career path and a way to keep students with good court reporting skills in the industry. Digital Reporting is a compelling next step of course continuation for any student who has not completed their steno instructions or desires a rapid path to become a certified, professional reporter.

Let Stenograph assist your institution in starting digital reporting, editor, or transcriber training programs.

When you partner with Stenograph you have the flexibility to mix and match pre-built educational programs through our exclusive Digital Reporting Academy. Our courses provide both software and skills training to prepare students for AAERT certification. Courses within the Stenograph Digital Reporting Academy are completely online and available 24/7 and consist of video lectures, MAXScribe software instruction, and quizzes. Plus, when you work with Stenograph, you have an entire team to support you.
